PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY SAMUEL SNOWDEN, ROYAL-STREET, ALEXANDRIA.

VOL. XIX.]

FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 9, 1818.

[No. 5353.]

American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS OF General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union; the danger of indulging too much in party feelings; the necessity of supporting public credit at home;—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations; of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments;—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

Mr. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 56 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. The ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials. The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; and the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN; and the Typographical part executed by John Binn. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness," it is intended to solicit any Subscribers until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.

For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. ## Baltimore Hospital, 24th August, 1818.

THE Board of visitors have much pleasure in announcing to the public, that within the last eighteen months, a large and elegant addition has been made to this valuable institution, in the erection of the East wing of the building. This wing is 152 feet in length and 36 in width, with an extensive Southern projection at its extreme East end. It contains between 30 and 40 apartments, admirably calculated for the accommodation of every class of patients. Of this number are several large and airy wards, intended particularly for the reception of seamen, and well adapted to their various diseases. These different rooms and wards will be warmed by open fires, and by heated air thrown into them, from furnaces constructed on a safe and improved plan. Arrangements will also soon be made, for lighting the apartments in the entire building, with gas.

The unwearied exertions of Doctors Mackenzie and Smyth, the attending Physicians of the Hospital, in their attention to the construction of the building, and their care of the sick, have given a character to this Institution, which is now inferior to none in the United States. In this short space of six years, a most noble establishment has been erected—a thing without parallel in this country. It is well known, that above half a century has been consumed, in bringing the Hospitals of New-York and Philadelphia to their present size, and it is admitted by many gentlemen, who have visited these Institutions, that the Hospital here, is by far the most extensive; the whole building being now 360 feet in length.

The daily increase of the sick in the Hospital, renders it absolutely necessary that the new wing should be furnished; and every exertion is now making, to have it completed, before the cold weather shall set in.

The visitors at their late meeting, examined the Institution with much care—the apartments of the sick in the private infirmary—those in the lunatic asylum—and the wards of the sick and disabled seamen in the Marine Hospital—and they assert with confidence, that the sick and afflicted of every description are well accommodated and carefully attended. They have seen at their different meetings, the private patient comfortable: the wretched marine humbly taken care of; and the sailor, disabled by age, wounds and sickness, well provided with suitable medical assistance, and with every other comfort which his condition may require. Indeed the agreeable situation in which this very useful class of men are placed, does much credit, as well to the Director of the Marine Hospital, as to the attending Physicians, to whose immediate care they are entrusted. Every praise too, which the visitors can bestow, is due to Mr. & Mrs. Gaichel, the Stewart and Matron of the Hospital, for the neat and clean manner in which the House is uniformly kept, and for their care and attention to the administration of the internal economy of the establishment.

Before they conclude this account of the Hospital, the visitors would invite the attention of their fellow citizens throughout the United States, to the Anatomical Cabinet of Wax Preparations, by Chiappe, which certainly far surpasses any thing of the kind ever exhibited in this country; and will afford to those whose curiosity may lead them to see how "fearfully and wonderfully they are made," but more especially to the medical student, a fund of useful information.

The Hospital is under the care of the following medical gentlemen:

Doctors Colin Mackenzie } Attending James Smyth } Physicians.
Dr. Horatio Gates Jernison, Attending Surg.
Doctors Brown
John Coulter
John Campbell White

ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TREACE or TREACY—she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 5 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria, and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Robert Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs. Negro Treace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a scorpion put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured in jail, or if out of the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. All persons are forewarned harboring or employing said Negro at their peril, as the law will be rigorously put in force against any offender.

French Creek Boarding School.

The following is published for the information of Parents:

HAVING long believed that a School on a plan different from most others in many respects, would be beneficial to society, and apprehending that with all its cares, and the responsibility inseparable from such a concern, I could more cheerfully devote my time to the education of children than to any other business, I have concluded to establish a BOARDING SCHOOL for GIRLS.—With this view I have purchased the FARMER CREEK FARM, four miles east of the yellow springs, on the Narristown and Philadelphia road, situated in Fike-land and Vincent townships, Chester county, twenty-seven miles from Philadelphia, combining many conveniences for the support of such an institution; and having let the farm, etc. in a way calculated to supply the family with provisions, I propose to devote my attention, with the aid of suitable assistants, to the education of the children who may be placed under my care.

In selecting the pupils, it is not proposed to be governed entirely by their ages, nor to require that they shall all be members of the religious society of Friends; but as the school rules will be very few in number and very simple, it is my wish that none may be sent contrary to their own inclination, nor any one who would not be likely to be good examples to the other scholars, and treat them with kindness and affection.

The price for board and tuition will be two hundred Dollars per annum, one quarter always to be paid in advance—no restrictions respecting the kind of clothing are intended, nor respecting the frequency of the changes that parents may require; the washes that be charged at the ordinary price per dozen—children may be admitted for one quarter only, and such as are entered for a longer period, may nevertheless be removed at the expiration of any quarter.—The communication with Philadelphia will be frequent and easy by stage, and a house of entertainment kept by the farmer for the accommodation of persons having business at the school.

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography and the use of Maps and globes, will be taught, together with such other branches as the progress of the children and experience may render expedient. The school to open the first of the 1st month next. For further information apply to Edward Stabler, Alexandria, or to

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND DAILY ADVERTISER. PUBLISHED BY SAMUEL SNOWDEN, ROYAL-STREET.

Friday, October 9, 1818.

From the Philadelphia Union.

On reading the account of the funeral obsequies of Maj. Gen. Arthur St. Clair.

Tis done!—no more shall valor crave
The pittance due to veteran fame; Tis done!—the lowly, peaceful grave Hath sealed the warrior's claim.

The solemn pomp—the decent sigh, Beneath a nation wrapt in gloom;
St. Clair's great soul, with scornful eye Surveys the mockery of the tomb.

Yst. sainted shade!—in future day, Shall tears of pure affection flow:
And nobler hearts that tribute pay, Which envy never can bestow!

But now—let fame no trumpet swell, Nor muses the laurel wreath entwine, For these, Columbia—these will tell Inerrant—'tis ever thine!

PIETY.

Piety communicates a divine lustre to the female mind; wit and beauty, like the flower of the field, may flourish and charm for a season; but let it be remembered, that like the fragrant blossoms that bloom in the air, these gifts are frail and fading; age will nigh the bloom of beauty; sickness and sorrow will stop the current of wit and humor; but in that gloomy time appointed for all, piety will support the drooping soul, like a refreshing dew upon the parched earth.

"HONEST THIEVES."

On Saturday morning, whilst the prisoners brought up by the watch, were under examination, a yellow woman presented herself at the police office and demanded entrance. A stiff contest ensued between her and the watchman, attending the door, he refusing and she insisting on admittance; that she come there to get justice done her. She finally entered; came up in high style before the justice, and proceeded with her complaint as follows: "Justice I be a very disorderly woman, I get drunk, fight, and raise hell; am not long out of bed, and want to go back. I be not fit to be out of prison, I ought now be sent to penitentiary, I want you to send me there." It being well known that her complaint was substantially true, her demand of justice was complied with, as to commitment, and she went off highly gratified bearing her mittimus for bedwell. (N. Y. Columbian.)

An Epigram on the late King of Prussia, and a receipt by Voltaire.

An Epigram was many years ago handed about Berlin, and shewn to the King, who with the spirit of Lord Mansfield, deemed it a libel because it was true; and instead of filing an information, and taking the tedious methods practised in this country, took a summary way of punishing the author, who he knew from internal evidence must be Voltaire, who was then a resident in Berlin.

He sent his sergeant at arms (one of the tall regiment,) not with a mace and scrap of parchment, but with such an instrument as the English drummers use for the good of such soldiers as commit any offence against the law military.

The Prussian hero went to the poet, and told him he came by his Majesty's special command, to reward him for an epigram on his royal master, by administering 30 lashes on his naked back. The poor philosopher knew that remonstrance was vain, and after submitting with the best grace he could, opened the door, and made the farewell come to his unwelcome visitor; who did not offer to depart, but told him with the most germanic gravity, that the ceremony was not concluded; for that the monarch he had the honor of seeing, must be convinced that his commission was punctually fulfilled, on which account he must have a receipt. This was also submitted to, and given in manner and form following: "Received from the right hand of Conrad Rachosner, thirty lashes on my naked back, being in full for an epigram on Frederick the third, King of Prussia:—I say received by me Voltaire. Vive le Roy."

This anecdote was not known until after the death of Voltaire, when old Frederick in a facetious moment produced the receipt to some of his favorite courtiers.

A Prussian lady, in the habit of giving a portion of two L. dollars to poor females in her neighborhood, as an encouragement to their getting husbands, was waited on one morning by a good looking girl, accompanied by her intended husband, an ugly little dwarf. The lady expressed astonishment at her not having a better spouse.—"Madam, (said the girl) what can a body expect for twenty dollars?"

CAUTION.

The public, and more especially the officers of banks, should be on their guard against an infamous forgery lately practised in this city, by altering the face of bank checks. The first attempt was made on the Merchants' bank, last week for 6 thousand dollars, which succeeded, as appears by the advertisement of the Cashier in yesterday's paper. A second, of the same nature, but met with less success, was made upon the bank at Jersey city. The following are the particulars:

A young man of genteel appearance, dressed in a blue coat, white vest and white pantaloons, presented to the cashier of the bank at Jersey city, a check, drawn by himself on the bank at Elizabethtown, for nine hundred dollars, endorsed on the back by the cashier of the bank at Elizabethtown. Good for the within amount—J. Dayton. The check being for so large a sum, the cashier of the Jersey City bank hesitated about paying it—Upon which the young man, with an appearance of great indifference, said it was a matter of no moment, whether it was paid there or not, and taking back the check, observed he could get it done in New-York. Yesterday forenoon he made the attempt upon the Union bank, but, luckily for that bank, a vague suspicion prevented them from accepting it—and strange as it may seem, no effort was made to detain the fellow.

On investigating this piece of knavery, it turns out that the rogue deposited in the first place in the bank at Elizabethtown, 90 dollars, and then drew a check for the sum and got the cashier to certify on the back—"Good for the within sum." In drawing the check, he had taken care to write the word ninety so as to leave a sufficient space between that and dollars to add the word hundred, after he had got his check certified to be good; thus changing it from ninety dollars to ninety hundred dollars. At the foot of the check where the figures are placed at the left hand, shewing the amount drawn for, the 90 dollars, by adding 00, is changed into 9000. Such a forgery might easily be prevented by the cashiers' particularizing the amount for which the check is good, instead of merely certifying, as has been the practice, "good for the amount." After the deed is stolen, says the proverb, the stable is locked.

This same fellow lodged at the widow Vanderbilt's, Staten Island, one night last week, and after the family had retired, rose, broke open a trunk belonging to Mrs. Vanderbilt, and robbed it of between fifty and sixty dollars in specie. He then hired a black man to take him in a skiff over to Bergen point, and made his escape. Police officers would do well to keep a sharp look out.

MORE STEAM-BOATS WANTED.

Madison county, in the Alabama Territory, containing 32 miles square, was sold by the United States eight or nine years ago. We are credibly informed that the exports of that county, for the present year, will exceed 8000 bales of cotton. Ten of the largest of our steam-boats would not be sufficient to freight this crop from the foot of the Muscle Shoals to market.

The great national road from Lake Pontchartrain to Nashville, which is now opening under the direction of General Jackson, will cross the Tennessee river a short distance below the Shoals, where, it is believed the government will lay out the tow, which will soon rank among the first in commercial importance. There the cotton which grows so abundantly in the great southern bend of the river, will be exchanged for the bagging, the cordage, flour, salt, pork, beef, and the various manufactured articles of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, and the extensive regions of the Mississippi and Missouri. It is firmly asserted, by those who ought to know, that no river in the west is better adapted to steam-boat navigation than the Tennessee, from the lower end of the shoals to its junction with the Ohio, a distance of about 300 miles. It is navigable at all seasons, forming a canal from the cotton to the manufacturing states. Those who have navigated James river, and the Savannah, from Augusta, assert that the Muscle Shoals themselves admit of better boating than many parts of those rivers. There is water at all times in them for batteaux, which could readily transport the crops of Madison to a steam-boat at the foot of the Shoals, and all difficulties will immediately vanish.—Can the enterprising merchants of Cincinnati and Louisville be insensible of the importance of this valuable carrying trade? Kentucky alone, consumes on its machinery 1000 bales of cotton per annum, which is transported on waggon 300 miles over miserable roads. Could the raw material be always had at Cincinnati and Louisville, where it could be exchanged for country linsey and such articles as would always sell at an advance in a cotton country, how much would it contribute to promote the industrious habits of our citizens, and to increase the wealth of our towns. But will steam-boat navigation keep pace with agricultural improvements? The lands lately surveyed by Gen. Coffee, form four counties as large as Madison, and capable each, of raising as much cotton in two or three years from this time. In that short period then, we shall want as many steam-boats at the Shoals, as will freight 40,000 bales of cotton, which is nearly as large a quantity as was shipped from New-Orleans in 1806.

[Cincinnati paper.]

Charleston, October 1.

Mr. Jonathan P. Smith, late mate of the schooner Little Jack, of this port, arrived here on Monday, in the schr. Elizabeth & Jane, from Havana, and furnishes the following particulars relative to that vessel: The schooner Little Jack, bound to N. York, sailed from N. Orleans on the 27th July last—on which day the captain, Davis, was taken sick—that they continued on their voyage, and about the 16th August they made the Pan of Mantanzas, in Cuba, and took their departure from thence to go through the Gulf—that owing to a strong counter current, of which they were not aware, they found when they made the land that they were to the westward of the Dry Tortugas; they then shaped their course to make the Island of Cuba, and supposing themselves to windward of Havana, and being short of provisions and water, they ran down for that port: about 2 o'clock on the following morning, the vessel struck on a reef, which they found afterwards to be the Cerarados Reef, off the west end of Cuba, and stuck fast.—After throwing a part of the cargo overboard, with great exertions they got the vessel afloat—they stood off, and next day spoke a Spanish drogger, from whom they understood where they were. They then stood in for the land, and being anxious to get a supply of water, about nine o'clock in the morning, of the ninth of September, sent one informant and two men in the boat to go on shore and try to get some water—that they went on shore, and found no inhabitants nor any appearance of water—that they directly came off again and rowed for the vessel, then in sight, lying low. By sundown they were within four or five miles of her, when it coming dark they lost sight of her; about nine or ten o'clock next morning, they were picked up by a small Spanish drogger, who landed them at Cabanas, from whence they went to Mariel, and from thence to the Havana. The schr. did not appear to have suffered from being on shore—and that the captain continued unwell, but was able to go on deck occasionally: That there was left on board, the schooner, besides, captain Davis, two men and a passenger: That on Sunday the 20th inst. when he left the Havana, nothing further had been heard of the Little Jack.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

We concur in the correctness of many observations contained in the following article, which should offend none, as the object appears to benefit all. The writer, however, has only glanced at the cardinal points—there is still much to say on the subject. [N. York National Advocate.]

Domestic Economy.—It has been frequently asked, what is the cause of this increase of pauperism in our city? how is it that our poor-house is not only crowded with aged and decrepit, but even youthful mendicancy? how is it that so many young women become inmates of charitable institutions, and so many of them foreigners? and, above all, to what cause are we to attribute an increase of depravity, sensuality and crime? These are serious questions, which, one day, we must seriously ask ourselves. Volucres have been written on pauperism, which, though they may not fully apply to our case, yet, in principle, if not in extent, they have a close connexion. Mankind is the same all over the world, and the same remedies may be safely applied in like cases. The want of industry is the foundation of the evil, and that industry in the poor order of the community can only be promoted by example among the better educated and refined. We have often imagined that our domestic economy was greatly misunderstood, if not sadly neglected, and we have frequently been tempted to attribute the cause, at once, to our wives and daughters; but the fear of offending, when we would only seek to reform, has ever checked our complaints.—But the evil may increase until whole communities fall victims to its effects; and, though we tread on dangerous ground, we must pluck up courage to say, that our ladies, generally, are not sufficiently industrious, and having said so, we throw ourselves on their protection for an indulgent hearing. It is sometimes necessary to mingle in domestic concerns—to leave the arena of governments, the asperity of politics, and the hurry of business, to look at home, where, after all, true happiness is only to be found—where, surrounded by family, by endearing ties, and by household gods, a true estimate of character can alone be formed. We employ too many domestics, and thus encourage idleness and extravagance. The labour of a house which can be effected by two persons should never employ four. Servant maids, whose time is not wholly engrossed by employment, and who have not before them the cheering and judicious example of industry in their mistress, acquire too soon a negligence, extravagance and listlessness, which begets indifference, pampers the body, and corrupts the mind. They are then dismissed their place—they try another, and the result is the same; without stability and industry they continue to change until they can no longer find a place, and then they swell the list of depravity or increase the number of mendicants. The mistress who sets an example of industry to the maid, will ever derive the benefit of her labors, and the maid will reciprocally gain every thing from the example. But, says the fashionable wife, am I to rub furniture, visit the kitchen, and darn nightgowns? We say, ay, good dame, for it will produce health and content, economy and happiness.

Why do our ladies look pale? Why are they not all florid and robust? Why do so many fall victims to disease and early death? It is because they do not take sufficient exercise—they do not bustle sufficiently about the house—they do not appropriate a due portion of their time to domestic concerns. What can be more engaging than seeing the tidy, active wife, and the accomplished woman blended in one person? What, in domestic life, wears an aspect so winning as the cultivated mistress of the drawing room and the industrious mother combined? Economy is the foundation of prosperity in all things, but particularly in domestic life. Ladies should make their own dresses and fabricate their own bonnets. Milliners and mantuamakers, it is true, would not be encouraged, but what then? Money would be saved, rents would decrease, provisions would be cheap, idleness unknown, and poverty unseen. Another evil now strikes me forcibly. We have too many societies erroneously called charitable, which create artificial wants rather than supply real ones; which tend to encourage pauperism instead of industry. Our wives and daughters are ambitious of the honor of being members of these multiplied associations, civil, ecclesiastical and mechanical societies; and the annual contributions and admission fees, swell in the aggregate to a sum, which, in truth, the head of a family, careful of his own interest, cannot well afford, in addition to taxes and other burthens. Dress is exorbitantly extravagant—simplicity is no longer known—fashion, with an iron sceptre, now reigns triumphant. Cashmere and merino shawls, Leghorns at forty dollars, watch, chain, seals, rings, and other unnecessary valuables, constitute our ladies a walking mine of wealth. Those who cannot afford to be in the fashion stretch their utmost means to imitate their neighbors, and gradually become poor, when, with proper economy, they might have been comfortable. All classes of society are more or less affected by fashion, or borne away by its influence. Hence pauperism, poverty in old age, and want in early life. A little resolution and the evil is overcome. If we agree to call a plain chit and muslin gown fashionable—if we agree that the industrious wife is the most fashionable being in the world, who dare dispute it? Here we have the remedy in our own hands; and never can the wife be made sensible of these facts until the husband, by a proper example, confirms them—until they both unite to promote industry, economy, content and happiness.

HOWARD.

END OF SUMMER.

"The fading many colored woods, Shade deepening over shade, the country round Imbrown'd; a crowded umbrage, dusk and Of every hue, from wan declining green To sooty black."

"The sun is now taking leave. Every thing is changed with us. The earth, which was lately so beautiful and fruitful is now becoming gradually barren and poor. We no longer behold that fine enamel of the trees in blossom; the charms of spring; the magnificence of summer; those different tints and shades of verdure in the woods and meads; the purple grapes; nor the golden harvests which crowned our fields.—When the earth is stripped of its corn, its grass, and its leaves, nothing is to be seen but a rough and rugged surface. It has no longer that beautiful appearance which the growth of corn, greens, and herbs, produced over a vast country. The birds no longer sing. Nothing now recalls to the mind of man that universal joy which reigned throughout all animated nature. He hears nothing now but the murmuring streams and whistling winds. Constantly the same dull sounds which can only create disagreeable sensations. The fields have lost their perfume; and the air is damp and cold.

"Yet the country, stripped and desert as it is, still presents to a feeling mind the image of happiness. We may recollect with gratitude to heaven, that the fields which are now barren, were once covered with corn and a plentiful harvest. It is true, that the orchards and gardens are now stripped, but the remembrance of what they bestowed upon us, may make us content to hear the northern blasts which at present we feel so sharp. The leaves are fallen from the fruit trees; the grass of the field is withered; the dark clouds fill the sky and fall in heavy rains. The unthinking man complains at this, but the wise man beholds the earth moistened with rain; and beholds it with a sweet satisfaction. The dried leaves and faded grass, are prepared by the autumnal rains to form manure to enrich the ground. This reflection, with the pleasing expectation of spring, must naturally excite our gratitude for the tender mercies of our Creator. Though the earth has lost its beauty and exterior charms, and is exposed to the murmurs of those it has nourished and cheered, it has already begun again to labor secretly within its bosom for their future welfare.

"Perhaps our own lot in this world has its seasons: if it be so, let us in the dull winter of life have recourse to the provisions laid up in the days of prosperity; and endeavor to make a good use of the fruits of our education and experience. Happy, if at the close of life, we carry with us to the grave the merit of having been useful to society."—Sturges's Reflections.

THEATRE.

[CONDITIONALLY THE LAST NIGHT.]

At the suggestion of many individuals, whose engagements will prevent them from attending at the theatre on Thursday evening, the entertainments announced for that evening are postponed until Saturday, Oct. 10. The Philo-Dramatic society feels constrained to add that the receipts of the house on Saturday evening, will determine whether it is to continue its exertions for the benefit of the poor, or whether a stinted patronage is to destroy its existence. At the organization of the society, the members flattered themselves that the public feeling was not averse to the principles by which they were governed; and they felt a conviction that that public which had bestowed half a thousand dollars upon a professional actor at his benefit, would not view with indifference the occasion which called upon it to contribute to the relief of the needy and distressed. But what has been the result?—After performing two nights, the books of the treasurer present a "lamentable account of empty boxes," and the Dr. & Cr. columns leave in his hands a paltry surplus of a few shillings and pence. A statement from the books will be given hereafter; it has been suppressed hitherto only in the hope that future receipts would render its sum total more pleasing. The members regret, in common with their friends, this result. They have employed their time and talents in a praiseworthy undertaking, and they feel not a little mortified to discover that while the frippery of pantomime spectacles—the tricks of horses, and the gewgaws of professional players, are liberally encouraged,—the modest appeals of amateurs in behalf of charity, are suffered to pass by unregarded.

Lexington at Public Sale.
On THURSDAY, October 15,

THIS estate, containing two thousand three hundred and fifty acres, more or less, being one-half of the well-known tract of land commonly called "Mason's Neck," situated on the Potomac, in the county of Fairfax, Virginia, is now offered for sale.
About two-thirds of it is covered with an uncommon heavy growth of white and black oak, hickory, pine, poplar, &c. near the water's edge, whence it may be transported to the markets of the district of Columbia, (a distance of 20 miles only) where timber and fuel are always in demand, and without the expense and risk encountered in conveying those articles from situations further down the river; the remainder is in cultivation, and furnished with every necessary building for that purpose; together with orchards and a blacksmith's shop. The lot or improvements are a spacious and elegant dwelling-house, kitchen, dairy, smoke-house, office, icehouse, a well of excellent water, and a falling garden, of the most tasteful and costly design, filled with the rarest and most beautiful shrubberies and flowers, exotic and indigenous, all situated on an eminence, commanding a view of the rest of the tract, which extends in an unintercepted plain from the foot of the eminence to the Potomac and Occoquan, by which it is so far bounded as to render the expense of enclosing it comparatively nothing. The prospect, moreover, of the surrounding country, diversified in every direction by sheets of water, is really beautiful beyond description. There are likewise attached to this estate four valuable however, the subscriber intends to reserve one of them and a few acres of land. The wooden bound with deer in such numbers, that with a little care a gentleman might command a constant supply of venison for his table; and besides the large streams above mentioned, the various creeks and inlets that every where intersect the land are covered in the proper season with wild fowl of every description known in our waters.

When to all these advantages is added the great natural fertility of the land, which is not exceeded perhaps in the western country, its adaptation to improvement by the use of plaster, which has been proved by experiment, its vicinity to society, to market, to two manufacturing grist-mills, to which the distance of conveyance by land and water is not more than 5 or 6 miles, it may with truth be pronounced the most valuable estate of the same extent, in the whole range of country watered by the Potomac.
It will be sold entire or divided to suit purchasers.

The terms of sale will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, the remaining 2-3ds in two equal annual payments, with interest from the day of sale, secured by a deed of trust on the land—which will be shown in my absence to any person disposed to purchase, by Mr. William Allison or 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania. I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity.

A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain; being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit.
More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had.
The terms of sale will be accommodating.
Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment. Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4. GEORGE MASON.

Stop the Swindler.
FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.
I WILL give the above reward for apprehending and lodging in any jail in the District of Columbia, a person by the name of JOHN POST, a Bricklayer and Stonemason, who has been at work for about two months past at Fort Washington, and was discharged on the 7th of September inst.— He says he was born in the state of New-York; is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and has sandy hair; he had with him an apprentice boy, nearly grown. A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Cobagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and the other he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, he worked in the City of Washington, where he said he intended to work again; but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villany.
Persons are cautioned against being imposed on by him. BOLIHA LAWS.

Aromatic Snuff.
For Catarrh of Headache.
THIS Snuff, as celebrated for its agreeable fragrance as for its efficacy in the cure of recent catarrh and slow nervous headache, is used and approved by the present professor of chemistry in the university of Cambridge, Mass. and by some of the most respectable gentlemen of the faculty in the United States.—It is also particularly recommended by Dr. Waterhouse, late professor of the theory and practice of physic, in the above seminary—whose certificate accompanies each bottle.—Sold by Auction & Commission Store.

NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st. where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with indelible ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two weeks ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward; Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom; and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

PROPOSALS.
By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker,
TO PUBLISH
A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address, To the People of the United States.

THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valour in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, vowed Victory till he won her: who coveted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss, by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union; the danger of indulging too much in party feelings;— the necessity of supporting public credit at home;—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations; of encouraging free intercourse free from foreign attachments;—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.
The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr.
Amies. The ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.
The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN; and the Typographical part executed by John Binns.
They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next.
That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "A Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness!" it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.
